Universal Power joins the Thomson Technology US Sales Team

Universal Power, www.uspwr.com, is the most recent professional sales organization to join Thomson Technology's Sales Team. Headquartered within the Silicon Valley in Campbell, CA Universal Power represents the entire line of Thomson Technology products in the sales territory of Northern California and Northern Nevada.

Universal Power provides a wealth of experience in the sale of electrical equipment in the critical power industry. They bring a strong background in the sale of systems as well as electrical distribution equipment. Universal Power's knowledge of the electrical power industry as well as its strong client relationships provide Thomson Technology with an exciting opportunity for growth in this key market area.

Thomson Technology is pleased to welcome Universal Power as a valuable partner in our Sales organization and look forward to better serving our existing client base as well as introducing new clients to its full line of products.
